Acting opportunity

Two by Jim Cartwright

To be directed by Lynn Lord and performed in the Studio Bar

20th - 24th April with rehearsals commencing early March

A bickering husband and wife and the dozen regulars who pass through their pub in an evening are played by two actors. Each vignette skilfully combines pathos and humour. When a little boy is left behind by his father, a fragile reconciliation occurs as their own dark tragedy is revealed.

The action takes place over one night, in a Pub in the North of England. It is designed so that 2 actors can play ALL the characters.

The other 'characters', portrayed by the two actors, are played with the minimal of costume changes and thus the action flows from one scene to another.

This play is to be cast "by invitation" from the director on Saturday 14th November and expressions of interest should be sent to the Casting Director casting@halifaxplayhouse.org.uk by midnight on 12th November

Director Lynn Lord says "This play, is a 'two hander' and an exceptional opportunity for two actors.

The action takes place over one night, in a Pub in the North of England. It is designed so that 2 actors can play ALL the characters.

The set will consist of a pub bar BUT all the glasses, pumps, till and optics are MIMED!!!

The other 'characters', portrayed by the two actors, are played with the minimal of costume changes and thus the action flows from one scene to another.

There is NO Interval…costumes are at a minimal.

The set will consist of a small Bar with a Bar table with chairs at one end of the set and a couple of Bar Stools.

The joy of this production is that allows the actors to develop their acting skills with the help and encouragement of an experienced director"
